The answer provided by the student must match the exemplar answer below.
- The student must list the information that must be included on an invoice for it to be a valid tax invoice.
The answer provided by the student must reflect the exemplar answers below and must include the seven (7) details listed for sales under $1,000 and the three additional details for sales over $1,000.

When must you provide a tax invoice

If a customer asks for a tax invoice, you must provide one within 28 days, unless it is for a sale of $82.50 (including GST) or less.

Information that must be included on an invoice for it to be a valid tax invoice

The information a tax invoice must include depends on:

- the sale amount
- the sale type [for example, a sale that includes both taxable and non-taxable items]
- who issues the tax invoice.

Sales under $1,000

Tax invoices for taxable sales of less than $1,000 must include enough information to clearly determine the following seven (7) details:

- the document is intended to be a tax invoice
- seller's identity
- seller's Australian business number [ABN]

- date the invoice was issued
- brief description of the items sold, including the quantity (if applicable) and the price
- GST amount (if any) payable – this can be shown separately or, if the GST amount is exactly one-eleventh of the total price, as a statement which says 'Total price includes GST'
- the extent to which each sale on the invoice is a taxable sale.

Sales of $1,000 or more

Tax invoices for sales of $1,000 or more also need to show:

GST included in each line item

the sale is clearly identified as being fully taxable by the words 'Total price includes GST'

the buyer's identity or ABN.

If your tax invoices meet the requirements for sales of $1,000 or more, you can also use them for sales of lesser amounts.

Question 26

Research and document what action a business must take when it receives an invoice from a supplier with no ABN quoted. Include a link to where you sourced the information in your response.

[Approximate word count: 150-160 words]

Assessor instructions

The student must research and document what action a business must take when it receives an invoice from a supplier with no ABN quoted. They must include a link to where they sourced the information in their response.

The answer provided by the student must match the exemplar answers below.

If the supplier does not provide an ABN and the total payment for goods and services is more than $75 (excluding GST), you generally withhold the top rate of tax from the payment and pay it to the ATO.

If a supplier has applied for an ABN, you can offer to hold payment until they have obtained and quoted their ABN. This is a matter for the supplier and purchaser to work out. However, you must not make full payment to the supplier on the understanding that an ABN will be quoted later.

As you cannot claim the GST input tax credit for payments you have withheld from, you should keep records of these transactions separate from other payment records.

There are some payments from suppliers that you don't have to withhold tax from, regardless of whether an ABN is provided or not. However, you must have sufficient records to show the reason for not withholding.
